

Name: _____

Video Recording on Your Cell Phone

As cell phones have become more sophisticated and young people's use of these devices has blossomed, so too have the opportunities to use mobile phones in ways that may cause intentional or unintentional harm to others.

Smartphones enable users to upload video footage with one or two taps on their phone. Young people need to be made aware of the risks they place themselves at when loading footage onto websites.