

Personal Reflection

What does the term reactive strategies mean to you?

What are your personal beliefs around the ideas of reinforcement and punishment? How do those beliefs impact what you do in your classroom?

What sorts of reactive strategies have you used in the past? How did they work?

How do the reactive strategies work to solve the challenges you face long term?

How do you provide reinforcement to your children? Do you still like the way you have done it in the past?

What are your school guidelines on time out or physical restraint?
