

Personal Reflection

What behaviors do you personally use to get someone's attention or to avoid/escape something?

What behaviors do you see the children in your class use to gain attention, or to avoid something?

What did you learn from the Communication Best and Worst activity? What do you need to be at your communication best?

Did this activity cause you to rethink your perspective on what the children in your class might need?

How will that impact your teaching and interaction with the children?